Certification process

We guarantee, so you can guarantee

A certificate or a quality mark is all about trust. Your customer requires quality, safety and traceability of food, feed and farm products back to source. They expect you as a retailer, a supplier or a farmer to prove your trustworthiness through independent verification and certification schemes. Furthermore, implementing a quality management system to manage your production and other processes can preclude recalls, food fraud and customer dissatisfaction.

As an independent third party, we certify and verify. Thus, we guarantee the highest levels of quality, safety and transparency – so you can guarantee your customer. If necessary, we can focus on preventing or revealing food fraud in production and administrative processes.

What can we do for you?

From farm to fork

+ We certify throughout the supply chain

Farm to fork certification is one of our specialties. Our services include international schemes and retail and farmer group schemes. We provide a range of GFSI approved certification standards – from GLOBAL G.A.P. and BRC Food to GMP+, FEMAS and FSSC 22000 – and others like HACCP. Plus, we audit and certify many national quality and animal welfare schemes. Furthermore, we audit logistic services, agents, brokers, storage and distribution – for example, IFS Brokers or BRC Storage & Distribution.

+ We verify throughout the supply chain

As a retailer, you perhaps have set up your own standards for suppliers to safeguard quality, safety and health throughout the supply chain. We can verify these standards as a second party audit body, so you can be sure your suppliers adhere to them.

+ We certify organic food

Processed organic foods often have strictly regulated requirements regarding the use of organic ingredients. Many countries require producers to obtain certification based on government and/or private-defined standards in order to market food as organic. We are a specialist in the field; Kiwa BCS is a world-renowned expert center for organic food certification.
